TUESDAY

December 8

What's special about
Special Education?

Join your MAASE colleagues in an examination of special education for the 21st century! As an active participant, you will:

- Learn how underlying principles of special education frame the emerging discussion of ESEA
- Examine ‘specially designed instruction’ as a cornerstone of special education practice
- Interact with Michigan leaders who are already holding key conversation about special education within general education
- Make your voice heard as we capture the practice knowledge of local leaders
- Learn how to use your influence to lead new conversations at the local level
- Craft the ‘tools for talking’ that you can use to engage your staff and school community
- Design the virtual support you need to help special and general education work together for all students!
